① Propósito ② Requisitos ③ Evaluación	① The aim of this course is to provide an overview of some of the central lines of research in English lexicology, with both a theoretical and an applied perspective. Special emphasis is given to the application of the topics discussed on a corpus of real data on the part of the students.
	② A proficient command of both spoken and written English is compulsorily required
	③ [ ] Examen Final [ x ] Presentación de trabajo final [ x ] Asistencia y participación [ ] Otros
	③ The evaluation of this course will be largely based on active participation in class and on a research paper that should be submitted by each student at the end of the semester. Provided that there is not an exam at the end of the semester, attendance and participation are key factors to pass the subject. There is also a continuous assessment of the research carried out, as it constitutes the core of the practical classes; that is, papers submitted by the end of the semester that have not been previously discussed in class cannot obtain more than a 'notable' as a final mark.
Temario	1. Introduction: Approaches to the study of the lexicon 2. The semantic architecture of the lexicon: componential analysis and semantic features 3. The codification of syntagmatic features: argument structure, lexical representation and complementation 4. Stretching the limits of lexical semantics: the meaning of constructions The syntax-semantics interface: towards a lexical grammar
